

The Mendez Foundation's Too Good Programs are proven effective, interactive and fun. And so are our trainings!

Join us in 2009 for the Mendez Foundation's Too Good Programs Curriculum Trainings and Training of Trainers sessions.

Experience the Mendez Foundation Trainers as we share our expertise and practical classroom skills to ensure your successful implementation of the Too Good Programs - Too Good for Drugs K-8, Too Good for Violence K-8, Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School, and Too Good for Drugs & Violence After-School Activities. As a training participant you will gain valuable hands-on experience with the curriculum while acquiring essential prevention education teaching strategies, and at the same time you will become familiar with the extensive research behind the model status Too Good Programs. Additionally, the group workshop environment provides an ideal setting to network and share ideas and prevention strategies with other dedicated Prevention Specialists from across the country.

Too Good for Drugs K-8

Designed to both reduce risk factors and enhance protective factors, this curriculum helps students develop practical life skills emphasizing goal setting and decision making. The teacher friendly Too Good for Drugs curriculum is designed to be both fun and interactive, in addition to being an effective way to share the drug prevention message in your classroom.

Too Good for Violence K-8

Promote a safe classroom for your students through the implementation of the Too Good for Violence lessons and activities. This curriculum is based on the latest research in violence prevention including character education and bullying. In addition, it features measurable objectives, evaluation tools and parent components.

Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School

Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School offers you an innovative approach to further the knowledge, skills and attitudes your students need to remain safe and drug free. Implementing the Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School curriculum completes a comprehensive K-12 drug and violence prevention program.

Too Good for Drugs & Violence After-School Activities

This dynamic program for ages 5-13 includes activities adapted from our award-winning school-based Too Good for Drugs K-8 and Too Good for Violence K-8 Programs. Designed for recreation centers, community environments or after-school settings, these activities augment school-based prevention education programs with fun and engaging opportunities to learn and practice prevention skills and attitudes.

Training of Trainers

This comprehensive session will give you the knowledge and skills necessary to train other professionals within your organization or district who intend to deliver the Too Good Programs. We will explore different training styles, best practice preparation, and presentation techniques to maximize your training effectiveness.

To attend this session, participants must have attended a Mendez Foundation Too Good Programs Curriculum Training (at an Open Training or in your district by a Mendez Foundation Trainer). In addition, the participant must have experience in implementing a minimum of one grade level of Too Good for Drugs, Too Good for Violence, or one complete program implementation of Too Good for Drugs & Violence High School or Too Good for Drugs & Violence After-School Activities.

Upon completion of a TOT session, participants will be certified for their organization to train in the Too Good Programs in which they received curriculum training and completed program implementation. TOT Certifications will be valid for a period of 2 years. Too Good Program Trainers will be required to complete re-certification training if they wish to maintain their certification.
